Bunch of happy kids spotted by a HERALD staffer, at ten a.m. Thursday, out for a Nature and learning experience walk from Cassie Hall. The youngsters are one of two half day classes of 40 pupils each taking part in a Summer Recreation and Language Development program, funded by Young Canada

Works. With Them are their teachers Lucy, Kathy, Cheryl Ann and Vera. Also participating in the program aimed at helping children with problems in English during the Summer are Clarence Michiel and Thornhill Schools.

Two Young Girls Missing At Usk

Two young girls were reported missing from their parents homes in Usk early Thursday morning.

Lisa Swain, 12 years old, is described as five foot one inch, 105 pounds with brown hair and brown eyes.

Fourteen year old April Powers is described as five foot four, 110 pounds with brown hair and blue eyes.

The girls are believed to be together. Anyone seeing two girls matching these descriptions is asked to contact the Terrace RCMP.

Doesn't Need It Now

MOSCOW Reuter - The Soviet Union said Friday it has produced a computer superior to most foreign made machines, including the U.S. model banned for sale to the official Soviet news agency Tass by Washington. U.S. President Carter banned the sale of a multi million dollar Sperry Univac computer to Tass because of recent Soviet actions against dissidents.

Disease Strikes Again

MONPELIER, Vt. AP - A man has died from Legionnaires' Disease - the mysterious illness which last year caused the deaths of 17 persons in Vermont, the state health department reported Friday. A health department spokesman, said the person who died was one of two recently confirmed cases of the pneumonia like illness. The spokesman said the two new cases were diagnosed in June. She said the other victim recovered. A total of seven cases have been confirmed this year.

Comic Strip Loss

SANTA FE, N.M. AP - Cartoonist Gary Chew had a run in with a flaming toilet, but he may not use it in his weekly feature because, he says, "noone will ever believe it happened." Chew said he was driving home Wednesday when he came upon a flatbed truck "sitting in the southbound lane and smoke was coming out of the back." The truck's driver jumped out to investigate and found a cardboard box containing a toilet had caught fire. But as the driver was getting out of the truck, he accidentally kicked it into gear. It moved ahead, jumped a median and struck Chew's car.

Veterans Affairs Office Will Open At Pr. George

The Department of Veterans Affairs has announced it in Prince George, "The new office, one of nine new Veterans Affairs facilities to open across Canada, is part of the federal government's program of decentralization and will provide service to veterans and their dependants in the northern half of British Columbia and the Yukon," said Iona Campagnolo, Skeena M.P., last week. When the office opens next year, Department of Veterans Affairs officials say they plan to staff it with locally-hired personnel. In addition to the opening of new offices across the country, Veterans Affairs will also be strengthening the field organization of the Veterans Services Program, which administers a variety of veterans benefits, through

It was almost a comedy of errors - but not quite. On Wednesday, personal friends of the editor from bygone sub-arctic days flew for a surprise visit from Eagle Grove, Iowa, U.S.A. to Prince Rupert, to catch him at home.

Learning the Prince Rupert Airport is closed on account of runway repaving, the couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzpatrick of Sergeant Bluff, Iowa, landed the Twin Piper Apache at Terrace airport, and drove a rented car to Prince Rupert only to find the editor is employed during the week at Terrace.

Phoning him from Rupert, they then drove back to Terrace, for a happy reunion. John, who recently sold the Eagle Bluff airport and his last two aircraft still keeps his hand in, as flying instructor. Small aircraft ownership is on the decline in the U.S., because of rising gasoline and aircraft prices, he said.

FOREST FIRE UPDATE

..The forest fire situation is much the same today as it was last Tuesday reports Terry Walker, a spokesman for the Forest Service. ..There was a report of a lightning strike Wednesday near Bella Coola but in Walker's words "A rain shower came along and put it back to sleep."

..Forest Service personnel are keeping an eye on the area. ..A fire in the Driftwood Creek area near Smithers was brought under control by an A-26 and two DC-6 air tankers, Walker says.

..The fire started when a farm tractor caught fire. The tractor and a trailer were lost in the fire but a barn was saved.

..Ground crews and a cat are now mopping up in the area. ..Walker reports the KAT fire is flaring up in the Chist Creek area. Seven fingers of timber which run up into the alpine will burn, but Forest Service officials actually are happy to see them go.

..Walker says the timber is well within the fire perimeter and this will cut down on its fuel. ..The KEN fire guard's construction is progressing well and Fred Roe, the ranger in the area, says with luck he may have it under control tonight.

..The SLOK fire is still burning out of control over 6,700 acres. Crews assisted by two cats are holding the blaze on the north flank which has almost run out of timber along the SLOKO River.

..To date 551 Forest Service men and 79 Eurocan men are fighting the fires. Average pay for firefighters is $4.00 an hour. A total of $3.1 million has been spent to finance this fight.

..Walker adds the camp fire bar is still on in the district and the forests are hot and dry and ready to burn.

Council O.K.'s Condominium

Reluctant Approval Given Keystone Apts.

By Donna Vallieres

Keystone Apartments in Terrace have been granted approval to go ahead with a proposed condominium conversion, but almost half of Terrace council is opposed to the idea.

At Monday night's council meeting, aldermen continued their ongoing arguments about whether council has the right to insist on certain standards being met along with strata title conversion.

"This development doesn't meet our standards," Ald. Vic Jolliffe stated, and said a council motion to approve the strata title was bypassing council regulations.

However, Ald. Dave Pease a vocal supporter of the Keystone conversion, said council did not come up with a strata title policy until after the Keystone proposal was already approved by council.

Keystone Apartments originally asked for council approval of the proposal last year and at that time council supported the proposal subject to compliance with national building code standards and municipal by-laws.

Because of the opposition of some members of council to the condominium conversion, council adopted a policy governing the changeover from apartments to condominiums in January of 1977 year.

"It's really sort of a puzzle to me" why the application was ever approved, Ald. Helmut Giesbrecht said, but Ald. Pease stated that because the Keystone proposal was approved before the policy was set, the original approval still stands.

The motion to allow Keystone to go ahead with strata title conversion plans resulted in a tie vote, with Ald. Cooper, Pease and Soutar voting for, and Ald. Giesbrecht, Jolliffe and Talstra voting against.

Mayor Dave Maroney broke the tie by voting for approval of the motion.

If any other strata title conversion proposals come before council, the developer would have to adhere to council's policy on the matter.

Two Northerners Named To Assist BC Parole Board

..Two well-known local residents have been appointed to the B.C. Regional Panel of the National Parole Board. Nan Harrison, of Terrace, and Karl Douglas of Kitimat were recently named to serve on the panel, which is designed to provide community input into Parole Board hearings for inmates sentenced to life or indeterminate sentences. Commenting on their appointment, Iona Campagnolo said, last week: "I am very pleased that strong northern voices such as these are among those that will be heard" on the Panel.

Wouldn't Fight Man Fined $100

Before Judge Graham, Thomas Galt was convicted of failing to render assistance in fighting a forest fire in contravention for the "Forest Act" and was fined $100 in Hazelton.

Hans Glasneck, local water and sewage purification consultant, who specializes in solving treatment problems, is himself undergoing treatment at Mills Memorial Hospital where he was interviewed by the HERALD, Thursday. Hans has what almost amounts to an obsession when it comes to the possibilities that are being overlooked for the potential use of the wasted heat from the Lakelse Hot Springs. He says the water already used in the pools at Skogland could be piped to heat greenhouses there to raise fresh vegetables, flowers and plants for apothecary purposes at a profit. And he speaks from having experience in hothouse culture in Germany. Hans firmly believes the Hot Springs are capable of other valuable uses, which will be described in a later issue of the HERALD.

Block Parents helping to protect children

Mrs. Lisa Brock, co-ordinator of the Block Parent Program in Terrace, would like to see a Block Parent sign on every street in the community.

Terrace and Thornhill have a growing Block Parent Program thanks to Mrs. Brock's dedicated and diligent work. The co-operation of the RCMP and the schools, and the financial support of the Terrace Centennial Lions and Lakelse Lions Clubs also played a large part in getting the program established.

Mrs. Brock realized how successful a Block Parent Program could be while living in Maple Ridge.

The Block Parent Program is for the protection of the community's children. Children who become hurt, frightened, or lost, look for the familiar Block Parent sign and know they can go to that house for help.

A National organization, Block Parents is well established in many communities in all provinces. It is an example of concerned citizens working within the community to create a safe and healthy place in which to raise a family.

For more information on Block Parents or if you would like to make a financial contribution to the program contact Lisa Brock at 635-3104.

Fisheries trains in "terrorist tactics"

VERNON, B.C. (CP) — George Manuel, president of the Union of British Columbia Indian Chiefs says that federal fisheries officers are being trained in terrorist tactics and that native Indians will defend themselves by any means, including violence.

Manuel said that a group of Indians is ready to take action unless white society returns land, resource and fishing rights that belong to his people.

He said Tuesday that violence in the form of sophisticated civil disobedience is a real possibility and selected Indians have been preparing for the task.

"They will be highly trained in discipline, defence and psychology," he said Wednesday. "Yes, we may consider arming them."

Manuel declined to reveal the location of such a training camp, or specific details of the plan, but said if action becomes necessary, bands of 20 or 30 Indians would be deployed to strategic locations.

"We will meet violence with violence," Manuel said. "For too long the government has ruled our lives and our homes. It's time we were our own boss in our own homes."

Senior RCMP officials refused comment. About 20 officers were sent to Lillooet in the Fraser Valley last week as 50 Indians lent support to a few opposing a fishing ban. There were threats, accusations and a scuffle.

Robert Manuel, chief of the Neakainlith band near Chase, said Wednesday he was told in meeting last week with Liberal MP Hugh Anderson (Comox-Alberni) that recently-arrived fisheries officers from Saskatchewan had been trained at the Regina RCMP training centre.

The meeting of central Interior Indians to which he was speaking resolved to ask union of chiefs to find means to protect Indians against fisheries officers.

Busdriver pays dues, halts Hydro strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jose Cabrita, the British Columbia Hydro bus driver whose refusal to pay a union-imposed fine brought Vancouver-area transit workers to the brink of a walkout, paid up Wednesday in order to keep his job.

Cabrita said Hydro fired him when he showed up for work Wednesday morning, but gave him the day to think it over.

"I had no other choice," he said in an interview. "It was either lose my job or pay the fine."

Payment of the $70 fine means Cabrita is back in the union.

The Amalgamated Transit Union said Tuesday that its 3,000 members in Greater Vancouver would book off work Wednesday unless Hydro suspended Cabrita, whose union membership was revoked for refusing to pay a fine imposed after he failed to picket during a week-long transit strike last March.

Hydro maintained its contract with the union called for the full dismissal of an employee who was not a union member in good standing.

IWA boycott

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — The International Woodworkers of America is organizing a boycott of Wong Brothers' enterprises here because they have chartered the SS Prince George to ITT Rayonier for use at its strike-bound Port Angeles, Wash., pulp mill.

Union spokesman Bob Rogers of Duncan, B.C., said Wednesday the IWA has endorsed the blacklisting of the Diners' Rendezvous restaurant, its affiliated catering service and a gift shop to protest the Prince George's use.

He said the Nanaimo, Duncan and District Labor Council is organizing a similar boycott.

An ITT Rayonier spokesman said the former Alaska cruise ship was chartered "in the event that he may need to operate the mill with management personnel in view of the strike which has affected the mill's operation."

The 445 employees at the 500-ton-a-day plant went on strike last Friday.

Forest fires worse since storms

VANCOUVER (CP) — Stormy weather that hit southwestern British Columbia Wednesday only made the forest fire situation worse, forest service officials said.

Lightning accompanying the rain started at least a dozen fires on southern Vancouver Island and four in the Gulf Islands. Nine other lightning fires started in the Vancouver area, said forest protection officer Arnold Ginniver.

More lightning fires were expected as the storm moves into the Interior today.

Meteorologists said the storm dropped about 33 millimetres of rain on southwestern B.C. The forest service said that 50 millimetres is the minimum rainfall necessary to reduce the fire risk.

Ginniver said light rain does not penetrate the large, dried-out logs on the forest floor that pose the greatest fire danger. "This rain will give the boys (firefighters) a bit of a break but it won't have much long term effect."

He said there were 190 fires burning Wednesday, including 27 new ones since Tuesday. Forecasters said the long-term outlook is still for unusually dry weather.

The lack of rain has forced the laying-off of most of B.C.'s 10,000 loggers and prompted the forest service to ban open campfires in most parts of the province.

Nat. gas prices rise

VANCOUVER (CP) — Homeowners in southeastern British Columbia will have to pay about $27 a year more for natural gas beginning next Tuesday.

Major centres that will be affected by the increase include Cranbrook, Creston, Sparwood, and Kimberley, all customers of Columbia Natural Gas Co., of Cranbrook, which brings its gas in from Alberta.

The 18-cents-a-thousand-cubicfeet hike is another of the regular six-monthly increases which were initiated by the federal government in 1974 in order to bring Canadian crude oil prices up to the level of world oil prices, currently about $14 a barrel. The Canadian price now is nearly $12 a barrel. As crude oil prices go up, so do natural gas prices.

No other parts of B.C. will be affected by the latest increase because all other sections of the province get their gas from sources within B.C., and Ottawa can't rule on the price of gas that comes from, and is used within, the borders of an individual province.

Columbia Natural also has applied to the B.C. Energy Commission for a separate interim increase of 12 cents a thousand cubic feet for residential and commercial rates, citing increased costs and taxes as the reason for the request.

Columbia Natural has about 9,000 residential customers. It also has several large industrial users such as Cominco Ltd., Kaiser Resources Ltd., Crestbrook Forest Products Ltd., Columbia Brewing Ltd., and Fording Coal Ltd.

Matsqui police studied

MATSQUI, B.C. (CP) — The British Columbia Police Commission has conducted a confidential inquiry into the workings of this Fraser Valley community's 36-member police force.

The inquiry came after negotiations between the municipality and the force bogged down earlier this month for the third consecutive year. Provincial mediator Peter Dowling has been appointed to the case.

Geoffrey Mortimer, acting chairman of the provincial police commission, said Wednesday the inquiry was conducted by a business consultant assisted by an RCMP officer and a Vancouver policeman.

"It was basically an internal study of the structure of the Matsqui police force, including all its systems such as the passing on of information and the handling of complaints," he said.

NEAREST THING TO A LIFETIME* ENGINE!!!
(Reduces the frictional wear-and-tear that causes you to "trade in" every few years).

NEW T.M.T. HOT "PLATES" THE INSIDES OF YOUR ENGINE WITH A 50,000 MILE PROTECTIVE Du Pont Teflon* COATING!

*Reg. U.S. Pat. Office for Du Pont's fluorocarbon resins.

FACT The cost of owning and operating any vehicle—car, bus, truck, you name it—has gone straight through the ceiling! The cost of gasoline and oil? UPI! The payments demanded by skilled (and not-so-skilled) mechanics? UPI! The price tags on new cars and trucks? UPI! It's positively sickening—and it's going to get worse before it gets any better!

ED ALMQUIST WORLD FAMOUS AUTOMOTIVE ENGINEER REPORTS ON T.M.T. TEFLON TREATMENT.

"The active chemical ingredient in 'T.M.T.' has a special affinity for metal which causes it to plate—and adhere to all exposed friction surfaces. Polymers attract more polymers to a micro thickness which means a 'controlled' build-up occurs around worn surfaces, which accounts for the numerous user-reports of reduced 'blow-by', increased compression readings, and reduced oil consumption."

"And in order to effect a permanent treatment you simply add 'T.M.T.' to the crankcase oil through the oil filler hole (so easy—that even a child can do it)—preferably after the engine has reached normal operating temperature. The engine should then be run for a minimum of thirty minutes, in order to make sure that all friction surfaces are 'plated'. Only eight ounces are required for the average passenger car or small truck engine."

"And once 'T.M.T.' has been added to an engine—positive results can be seen through the experienced and trained eyes of even the most skilled of mechanics. They will notice a decided increase in compression readings—which indicates that piston and ring seal have improved. An increase in idle r.p.m.'s will also be detectable due to the reduced friction after a few hundred miles of 'T.M.T.' 'plating'."

"CONCLUSION: Not only is 'T.M.T.' easy to use (it should take 30-seconds at the most for adding a permanent treatment)—but its results can be seen even under the careful scrutiny of any mechanic! The benefits that can be expected with 'T.M.T.' in the engine—are as follows: Increased Gas Mileage—Increased Horsepower—Less Oil Consumption—Less Wear On Internal Parts—Reduced Emissions—Lower Operating Temperatures—Easier Cold Weather Starts!"

Now that you've heard from the expert... listen to the raves of ordinary drivers.

THE RESULTS PEOPLE HAVE GOTTEN ARE SO SENSATIONAL, WE CAN'T PRINT THEM. THAT'S WHY WE'VE "BEEPED" THEM OUT OF THESE ACTUAL CUSTOMER LETTERS...

(Once you've put T.M.T. in your vehicle, you'll be filling in the figures yourself!)

Motorcycle Racer Gets more power!
"As an engineering student and racer, I was interested in what T.M.T. would do in a tenth mile speed test.
A series of runs from a standing start showed that our E.T. (Elapsed Time) was reduced by XX a second after T.M.T. was added to the fuel mix in my 125 c.c. Kawasaki Motorcross racing motorcycle.
As a student of engineering this proved that T.M.T. reduced friction and increased power."
K.B.—Racer

"Bad Deal" becomes "Good Deal" with "T.M.T."
"I've tried gas savers, pills, new filters, engine treatments, etc. My friend told me about a product that his father had just tested for his fleet of trucks and I'm sure you guessed it was T.M.T.
My mileage has gone from XX to an unbelievably astounding XX. My father, who is a car mechanic, told me it's impossible but I've kept exact records on my last four tankfuls and have proven the old saying that even fathers can be wrong. Of course he probably won't admit it until he uses the T.M.T. in his car that I'm giving him as a present."
—R.W.

Auto Mechanic recommends "T.M.T."
"I am an Auto Mechanic and I drive a '67 Caddy, and it was using a lot of gas in the city and on the highways. I was getting 14 miles to the gallon, but now, since I've been using 'T.M.T.' I pick up XX gallons in the city and XX gallons on the highway, so I know you people have a good product and I will recommend it."

EDITORIAL

When figures reach the one million dollar mark, the average person, I think, begins to lose grasp of the amount. When that figure is one hundred million - he is lost. But when it reaches five hundred million - it might just as well be a statistic related to the moon, or radio frequencies, or unemployment statistics - or some other equally vague subject where great numbers are tossed about with little or no meaning.

Unless you live in Kitimat.

Five hundred million dollars was the amount private investors - including the proverbial "little old ladies and old age pensioners" spent - just in capital investment - to build the town the power generation and the aluminum plant at Kitimat, 25 years ago. At today's inflated dollar, this would be somewhere around the one and a half to three BILLION dollar mark.

But even at that, 25 years ago, it was the single largest financial undertaking in the country ever made by private enterprise.

Having sufficiently impressed our readers by figures that can be found in any free brochure on Kitimat, from the local tourist bureau, we'll simply agree. Alcan is a pretty "big" outfit, anywhere in Canada.

I was told, earlier this week, the aluminum plant at Kitimat is the second largest - not only in Canada - but in the Free World. (I hope I got that straight.)

History Lesson

As all our Kitimat readers know, the Alcan plant here uses a tremendous amount of electricity. A Hydro official told me once, by way of comparison, that the amount of electricity lost in just being carried over the power lines from the generator at Kemano, fifty miles away, to Kitimat, would easily power the city of Prince Rupert (he lived there) - so I assume it would be correct to say the power loss could equally supply a city the size of Terrace or Kitimat. (That's a bit like learning the food your family scrapes into the garbage can each year would feed an entire village in India!)

So far, this editorial has been emphasizing size. Without actually saying it, it seems to suggest that bigger is better. That, if I am driving a car twice as big as yours - or if I own a house twice as big as yours, - or a boat, or a trailer, or a company.... Yet this is not what I mean.

Almost side by side, watching the first surveyors into the Kitimat area - perhaps thirty to forty years ago down to the present, a second community has existed. This community has no "Administration building", and almost no "P.R." office.

Those who can remember "when" - and there are still a large number left - recall the large part oolichan from the river, and game from the forest, played in the life of the "other village".

Much was made of the benefits from increased employment the large companies - Eurocan and Alcan would bring to the area when they move in.

Alcan - I was told - puts the food on the table, the clothes on the back, the roof over the head, the car in the garage, the boat on the lake, the holiday in Hawaii - for some 2,500 employees in Kitimat. If four is the size of the average family, - perhaps 10,000 persons owe their livelihood, in Kitimat, to Alcan - and most of the rest - presumably, to Eurocan.

For the ancient community - the one that watched the arrival and growth and further development take place on land and waters upon which they used to hunt and fish and trap for a living - the past twenty-five years must, indeed, have meant many changes.

It would have meant, on the positive side, that sickness was less of a threat. That dimming eyesight could be restored by glasses; hearing aided by instruments; that brothers could talk with brothers many miles distant; that they could learn by pictures transmitted across the skies into their own homes, of things happening among people they never had known existed. It meant machines that they could afford that could take them quickly across the land and the water. It meant they would never have to fear the cold winter, the threat of forest fire, the ever present fears of what would happen to them if they should become crippled and when they became old. Their children would be able to learn many new things, and share in the knowledge of the universe with people of all races.

Today, more changes are noticeable in the Indian Village. Each house now has a little machine that will warn them if a fire breaks out when they are asleep in their own home, in time to save their lives. Places where they can have fun and recreation and exercise to keep their bodies strong and their minds alert are going up in the village. And there is much more of the same to come. The old songs are being taught and sung that had almost been forgotten. The dances have come back, that most feet had forgotten. The old ways are being remembered, and written down so there will never be the danger, again, that they will be forgotten.

One village is small. The other village is many times larger. Who is to say which is the better? But this there is that one can take heart from.

Two thousand years ago plus perhaps another thousand or so, those who were under the shadow of giants then were able to take courage. When a giant became too great a threat, one who was small stood up - and the giant was feared no more. The small one's name was David. Everyone will remember the giant's name.

Supermarkets Tempt People To Shoplift

Dear Sir,

Your recent editorial on shoplifting made some good points. It is hard to see how a shoplifter has much right to complain about being on the pharmacy list since public discovery is one of the normal risks every shoplifter must run. On the other hand, it is possible that super-markets sometimes over-compensate about shoplifting losses? Much of their profit comes from tempting human weakness into impulse buying from shelves open to public hands. They run the risk that from time to time their merchandising methods will tempt the wrong weakness. Certainly shoplifting cannot be condoned on that basis, or any other, but when it happens, it should not cause injured surprise in the market place.

If this type of theft is on the increase, it may be partly because of growing unfriendly feelings toward the grocery giants. When they were first developing, customers tended to have friendly feelings toward them. Generally, they could be relied upon to offer lower prices, good quality and a sincere effort to please the customer. Lately, they often fail in all three categories. One keeps running into things that annoy. As a local example, last week green peppers sold in Vancouver Safeway stores for 39 cents a pound. In Terrace Safeway, they sold for 99 cents a pound. We are used to a 10 cent per unit difference, but more than doubling the price does make a person feel unfriendly.

People don't like being "ripped off" and a few are bound to express their anger in the wrong way. Sincerely yours, Eva Bebington

EDITOR'S NOTE

A quick check with Safeway's showed green peppers in Terrace this week to be 69 cents a lb. - in Vancouver, 59 cents. The manager said Terrace has been experiencing a steady increase in shoplifting over the past several years, and that it is a problem. He felt a ten cents differential on the average poundage would be found to exist on most items compared with Vancouver which reflected freight costs from the South. Especially on heavier items. We hope to have more reader reaction on this subject shortly.

Nurses President Issues Warning

Something must be done at once to improve the nursing situation at Vancouver General Hospital, for the sake of its present and future patients, according to Sue Rothwell, president of the 20,000-member Registered Nurses' Association of B.C.

Writing in the June-July issue of "RNABC News", the association's membership publication, Rothwell warns that "without strong nursing leadership soon, VGH will not be worth saving. Many good qualified nurses, acting as individuals, will leave the hospital; others like them will not accept employment there because of the deplorable situation."

A dispute at the hospital has been raging since mid-April over how the existing management structure affects the delivery of nursing care. More than 800 VGH nurses have given written support to a request for the creation of a hospital vice president of nursing, a senior position comparable to that in most Canadian hospitals.

Rothwell's editorial notes that "what happens at VGH must affect the practice of registered nurses in all parts of British Columbia." The hospital is the only referral centre for many patients in outlying areas who require specialized care.

Among the major organizations supporting the nurses are: the B.C. Medical Association, the Consumers' Association of Canada (B.C. Branch), the Federation of Medical Women of Canada (B.C. Branch), the Greater Vancouver Chapter of the B.C. Association of Social Workers, the Professional Association of Residents and Interns of B.C., the Registered Psychiatric Nurses' Association of B.C., and the UBC School of Nursing Faculty.

TURBINE RUNNER, loaded onto specially-designed trailer, begins journey by barge from Vancouver harbor to north coast of British Columbia. From there, trailer will continue trek along logging roads to B.C. Hydro's Peace Canyon power development near Hudson Hope. Runner, largest component of generating unit, is too wide and heavy for conventional highways or railroads. Weighing 220 tons, the 28-foot-wide, 15-foot-high watershell is largest in B.C. Hydro system and among largest in North America.

Largest Turbines In North America Come To Kemano

A huge moving job - with the logistics of a military manoeuvre - has begun at Vancouver harbor.

The first of four 220-ton turbine runners, or waterwheels for B.C. Hydro's Peace Canyon hydro-electric project has arrived aboard the Yugoslavian freighter Opatija from the Russian manufacturer, Leningrad Metal Works.

The runners, more than 28 feet wide and 15 feet high, are the largest and heaviest yet acquired by Hydro and are among the largest in North America.

They are so wide and heavy that British Columbia's highways and railroads could not accommodate them unless they were separated into sections. But to avoid possible problems in re-assembly at the Peace Canyon (formerly called Site One) construction site, Hydro arranged with the supplier to have each runner shipped whole.

The supplier in turn retained Apex Industrial Movers, a Burnaby company with wide experience in similar transportation jobs, to help plan and carry out the move of each runner from Vancouver to the construction site, 14 miles downstream of W.A.C. Bennett Dam on the Peace River in North-central B.C.

The journey will cover nearly 1,000 miles, by sea, river, lake and logging road, through two mountain ranges. It will require a convoy of barges, tractors, trailers and cranes and a crew of 18, and will take more than two months.

It began Saturday, July 22, with a four-hour-long off-loading operation in which stevedores employed the 300-ton crane at Centennial Pier to lift the first runner from the hold of the Opatija, then transferred it to the dock while the freighter moved out of its berth to make way for a 2,000-deadweight ton barge.

The barge, stiffened for heavy loads, earlier had taken on a specially-built 155-foot-long trailer which will carry the runner until it arrives at the construction site. The dockside part of the operation was completed with the careful lowering of the runner onto the barge-borne trailer.

The trailer has 184 wheels, 42 of which are retractable and will be used only in special situations such as bridge crossings.

The next stage of the moving job will see the runner transported aboard the big barge to an unloading grid trailer and on Gardner Canal near Kemano on the north coast of B.C.

A second barge will accompany the first, carrying three more trailers bearing a specially-made sectional barge to be used for several northern lake and wide river crossings. The lake barge assemblies into a floating platform 42 feet wide and 165 feet long.

Also aboard the second ocean-going barge will be two heavy mobile cranes to lift the sectional barge in and out of the inland waters, a semi-trailer van fitted with repair and welding equipment in case repairs are required en route, and trailers loaded with 75-foot-long ramps to bridge the half-dozen or so small creeks that have to be crossed.

At Kemano, the two ocean-going barges will be unloaded and the runner will begin the first overland leg of its journey, a steep 35-mile-long climb to Tahtsa Lake. The trailer carrying the runner will be pushed and pulled at the same time by powerful tractors at each end.

At Tahtsa Lake, the sectional barge will be assembled to carry the convoy over Tahtsa Lake, Nechako Reservoir and Ootsa Lake to Kenney Dam.

Coming off the water at Kenney Dam, the convoy faces a tough 240-mile overland trip through Vanderhoof and Fort St. James to Williston Lake, the reservoir for Hydro's Peace projects.

Delaying factors on this leg are the Nechako River at Vanderhoof and the Nation River north of Fort St. James, where the barge must be assembled again to carry the convoy across these waterways.

Assembled for the final time on Williston Lake beside the mouth of the Manson River, the barge will carry the runner 120 miles to the W.A.C. Bennett Dam, where the trailer will take to the road again for the final 20 miles to the Peace Canyon dam.

The second runner is expected to arrive from Russia in September, and the third and fourth in 1979.

The narrow and often winding logging roads to be travelled are being widened, straightened and strengthened with the cooperation of logging companies in the area and the B.C. Forest Service.

While shipment of the first runner will be a trailblazer, Apex partner Ian Harvey is looking with more apprehension at the schedule for the second.

Arriving in Vancouver in late September, the second runner will be in the mountains of the Coast and Omineca Ranges just before the annual heavy snowfalls normally can be expected.

If snows come earlier than usual, the convoy will face additional problems and hazards.

Goeds Explore High Arctic For Parks Canada Research

OTTAWA, July 5, 1978 - Two Parks Canada employees, Caroline Parmenter and Margaret Burnip, along with students Jim Light, University of Manitoba, and Collin Langueduc, Trent University, left on the morning of July 7 for an eight-week trek to conduct archaeological research on Beechey Island, Ellesmere Island and Somerset Island in the High Arctic.

The research project which started in the Summer of 1976 was brought to the attention of Parks Canada by the Polar Continental Shelf Project, Energy, Mines and Resources, a federal government agency based in Resolute Bay and co-sponsoring research projects in the High Arctic.

Caroline and Margaret along with the students are looking forward to setting up camp at Northumberland House on Beechey Island where they expect to finish the research conducted in the summers of 1976 and 1977.

Gear needed Sturdy hiking boots, down-filled parkas, vests and anoraks, long underwear, double wool socks down-filled or sheepskin mittens are the order of the day for Caroline and Margaret and their co-workers when they prepare for their expedition. An arctic down-filled sleeping bag is also essential.

Besides their survey gear, cameras, two radios, a rifle and a shotgun, members of the expedition carry their food supplies which consist mainly of freeze-dried food: chili, beef stroganoff, ice cream, pork sausage, shrimp cocktail, dried fruit. Caroline and Marg have lost two camps to Polar bears; one was lost in 1976 and the other in the summer of 1977. They have seen bears at every camp.

"Despite the hardships, it's wonderful," says Caroline. "There is fantastic birdlife up there; we do a lot of hiking since it's the only thing to do and you can't sit around motionless otherwise you'd freeze to death."

Both Caroline and Marg agree that when they get back south they experience a culture shock with the noise and pollution of our civilization.

From 13 July to 15 August 1978 they undertook a preliminary survey of 12 sites in the Arctic as a result of reports describing unauthorized artifact removal and the despoliment of sites arising from the recent influx of people into the Arctic. Most of these sites were established by expeditions sent by the British navy during the 18th Century to search for the northwest passage between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. Sites surveyed in the 1976 season were associated with Sir John Franklin's ill-fated 1845 expedition and the expeditions sent in search of him. The fieldwork consisted of measuring, photographing and recording artifacts and other material left in situ and making surface collections of artifacts.

In 1977, two sites, Cape Riley (Devon Island) and Northumberland House (Beechey Island) were visited in order to continue recording which was unfinished during the brief 1976 investigation.

Jackson is back

N.Y. Yankees split doubleheader

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Reggie Jackson returned to the lineup Thursday afternoon for the first time in 10 days but New York Yankees could only manage a split of an American League doubleheader against Cleveland Indians.

Jackson had a homer and two run-scoring singles to lead the Yankees to an 11-0 rout in the first game. But the Indians, chasing Jim (Catfish) Hunter in a nine-run first inning, rebounded for a 17-5 rout in the second game, led by Duane Kuiper's two bases-loaded triples.

In one other American League afternoon game, Stan Perzanowski pitched a six-hitter in his first major appearance in more than two years as Minnesota Twins defeated Toronto Blue Jays 6-3.

Jackson, reduced to a parttime designated hitter and bench-warmer by Billy Martin before Martin resigned last Monday, had RBI singles in the first and fifth innings and his 15th homer of the season in the fourth. He also walked and scored in New York's seven-run second inning.

In the nightcap, Bob Lemon, Martin's successor, suffered his first defeat in four games. Jim (Catfish) Hunter failed to retire any of the six batters he faced in the opening inning. The first 10 Cleveland batters reached base on five walks and five hits—including Kuiper's first triple. He hit another one in Cleveland's five-run fifth.

CUBBAGE STARS
Perzanowski, called up from the minors earlier this week, responded with his first complete game in the majors. He was backed by Mike Cabbage, who hit for the cycle—single, double, triple and homer—and drove in four runs.

In one National League afternoon game, San Diego Padres struck for three runs in the first inning, two on Dave Winfield's single, and beat Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3. The Pirates' runs came on solo homers by Ed Ott, Phil Garner and Bill Robinson. In the only NL night game, Houston Astros defeated New York Mets 8-3 on J.R. Richard's third two-hitter of the season and Enos Cabell's two runs batted in. Richard fanned nine to raise his major league-leading total to 194.

In American League night action, Texas Rangers beat Boston Red Sox 3-1, Milwaukee Brewers defeated California Angels 6-3, Kansas City topped Seattle Mariners 3-1, Baltimore Orioles downed Detroit Tigers 7-3 and Oakland A's beat Chicago White Sox 7-4.

Fifth-inning homers by Texas' Bump Wills and Mike Hargrove and Jon Matlack's eight-hitter saddled the sagging Red Sox with their eighth loss in nine games. Boston's AL East lead over

Handicapped Canadian wins 5 medals

STOKE MANDEVILLE, England (CP) — Ed Batt of St. Catharines, Ont., continued his haul of medals Thursday at the Stoke Mandeville Games for the handicapped.

Batt won the Class 1A wheelchair slalom and came second in the discus to bring his medal totals after two days to two gold and three silver and account for five of the Canadian team's seven medals so far at the Games.

Ralph Thibadeau of Lindsay, Ont., earned the first Canadian bronze when he placed third in the men's Class 1B slalom.

Batt, who has won a medal in every event he has entered, takes part in the 60-metre sprint and table tennis events today.

He was Thursday with his discus performance.

"It was my best throw ever and I set a Canadian record," he said.

Pat McCool of Ireland won the discus with a throw of 12.59 metres to 11.48 metres for Batt.

McCool and Batt also finished one-two in Wednesday's club throw.

Batt topped Paulo d'Agostini in the wheelchair slalom, gaining a measure of revenge on the Italian who had beaten him the previous day in table tennis. Batt's time was one minute 59.07 seconds to 2:03.7 for d'Agostini.

Batt credited basketball with sharpening his reflexes for the slalom competitions where competitors must wheel their chairs through a series of gates.

"But the biggest help for my throwing events has come from swimming," he added. "I trained for four months in the pool, increasing the load every day. It has really built up my shoulders and arms."

Joan Chelsberg, recreation director for the Kermode Friendship Centre is having trouble getting the native women's softball tournament off the ground.

Kermode Centre tourney faces lack of interest

This year's third annual native women's softball tournament sponsored by the Kermode Friendship Centre is scheduled to go this weekend at Riverside Park even though only four teams have showed interest in playing.

Joan Chelsberg, recreation director at the centre said of the 17 invitations sent out to various native softball teams only Prince Rupert, Kispiox, Kitwango and Terrace have agreed to participate.

"We're trying to contact local softball teams to see if they could play some exhibition games," said Chelsberg in an interview Thursday.

The first game of the tournament will be July 28 at 7 p.m. Games will be played on the 29th with the championship game sometime on the 30.

The centre is also sponsoring a dine and dance on the 29th but ticket sales for this are going poorly as well.

"It seems like this year they are tired of playing ball and they don't want to start up. We are the last team to put up a native tournament and some of the teams have split up," says Chelsberg.

She said an annual trophy, a keeper trophy and medallions will be awarded to the first place team along with a $300 cash prize. Medallions and trophies will also be awarded to the second place and third place teams with $200 and $100 cash prizes respectively.

Trophies will also be given out to the most valuable player, most inspirational, most sportsman like, best hitter, best pitcher, best catcher and best fielders.

The tournament began as an activity for native women says Joanne McNeil of the centre.

"It began mostly as an activity to get the girls involved in an activity to get them off the street," Chelsberg says the tournament will go on even with the lack of interest shown.

"We've sunk so much money into it now we couldn't cancel it if we wanted to."

She adds the centre has put together a team called the Kermode Hellraisers who will take on any challenger in a game Friday night.

Defending champion leads Man. open

WINNIPEG (CP) — Defending champion Dan Halderson of Shilo, Man., and at least three other former champions head the field of 60 professionals in the opening round of the Manitoba open golf championship today.

The full field will approach 100 golfers with about 40 amateurs expected.

The three-day, 54-hole tournament carries $15,000 in prize money with the low professional taking $3,000.

Bill Whibley, home professional for the Pine Ridge golf course, site of the open, says "play the par 3s right and you'll win the golf tournament."

The course, 6,411 yards long, is a par of 37-35-72 and is in excellent condition. Whibley said there's no reason the professionals can't beat par unless the wind gets up.

One thing the golfers have to do, however, is play the fairways straight off the tees.

"Your tee shots will determine how you score here," added Whibley. "You must get to know what club is required off what tee. The greens are tricky but not any different than anybody else's."

WON WITH CHIP — Halderson won last year's championship when he holed a 70-foot chip shot on the final hole of the tournament. Other former champions already entered are 1976 winner Richard Ermantraut of St. Paul, Minn., Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, the 1972 winner, and threetime champion Moe Norman of Gifford, Ont.

Norman has been practising at Pine Ridge since Saturday and says the course is the second-best one in Western Canada.

But before the field was assembled the open organizers were hit with a mild shock by the sponsoring body, the Winnipeg Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber agreed to take over the tournament this year after a cigarette company, Peter Jackson, withdrew its lengthy sponsorship. The chamber had planned to organize 18 corporate sponsors to pay for the prize money and other operating expenses but they announced earlier this week that those plans failed to materialize.

The chamber managed to attract just one corporation willing to sponsor a hole at $2,500. So the chamber was forced to put up the $15,000 prize money for the tournament, plus $2,000 for the two-day pro-am that preceded it.

Family breakdown causes problems

From The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints Family Breakdowns Cause Problems

An editorial in a widely published magazine for April says that children are in trouble as a direct result of the breakdown of the family. It continues and says: "Many parents during the last three generations have left raising, nurturing and training of their children to others while they went out and searched for greater material affluence and personal freedom. If parents assume their responsibility of training their children with care and solid direction, then the chance for a bright future is greatly heightened. If these things are not important to us, then we probably are writing the closing chapter of our history."

"Let's stop being the silent majority and start saying a strong no, to the things that are destroying this great country."

Child psychologists, social workers and law enforcement people have 'shouted to high heaven' the truths referred to in that editorial. Parents must change if they want the "lamb" usually merely go where the "sheep" lead them!

Should we not remember that it is the adults, not the children, who make the liquor laws and set that standards of drinking?

It is the adult segment of society which is responsible for most of the crime in the world.

The adults not the children set the pattern in shoplifting and other petty crimes.

The adults, not the children, cause divorce and other marital problems which break up homes and rob children of the wholesome family life which builds character and respect for law and other people's rights.

The adults not the children, set up gambling facilities and establish the pattern for betting on football, horse races, dog races and the wide variety of games of chance.

The adults, not the children produce the pornographic movies, books, and filthy seductive devices which circulate everywhere.

Young don't have faith they should

LAC STE. ANNE, Alta. (CP) — The crowd of Indian and Metis pilgrims paying homage here grows each year, but some of the older participants complain that many young persons do not have the faith they should have.

They say too many of the younger participants come only to the mission for fun and to see their friends, rather than pay proper homage to Ste. Anne and the church.

The Indians and Metis have been coming to the Roman Catholic mission here since 1899 from both inside and outside Alberta.

This year's crowd, jammed into 25 acres on the shores of Lac Ste. Anne, 60 kilometres west of Edmonton, was estimated at 20,000 by attending priests Wednesday.

Crowds lined up to buy religious articles, prayed at the shrine or waded into the lake which is believed to have healing powers.

The shrine here is adorned with crutches and canes, abandoned during past pilgrimages, similar to the Ste. Anne de Beaupre mission in rural Quebec.

Elizabeth Vandelle, who lives at nearby Gunn, says she has not missed a pilgrimage in 65 years.

RETURNED TWICE

"I knew a woman who left her crutches here," she says. "She was a young girl of 18 or 19 and she had really bad ulcers on her legs. She heard about this and told her dad to bring her here. He brought her two years, but it didn't help. The third year, he couldn't bring her, so my cousin did."

"He stopped in front of the church; she went in to pray and when she got up, she forgot her crutches and walked to the tent."

All the HONDAS are here.

Take Preventive Action

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" may be a well-worn adage. But when applied to household chores, it's a well-tested fact of life.

Below are a few examples of simple tasks that quickly get out of hand. You'll probably be able to think of additional items that belong on this list. Keep these and similar chores under control before problems set in, and you'll find your days run much smoother and with less effort.

Sew loose buttons before they fall off; polish the silver before it tarnishes; clean the "works" of your coffeepot before they get really discolored.

Clear leaves and dirt out of your gutters before they overflow; sprinkle sand or salt on your walk and driveway right after you finish shoveling the snow—and before the ice forms.

Clean kitchen and bathroom drains weekly with Drain Power, the one-second drain opener that contains no dangerous lye or acids, to prevent sluggish drains and avoid difficult clogs.

Have your chimney cleaned and sweep out your fireplace before your first winter fire; vacuum your draperies frequently and have them dry-cleaned before dust has the chance to wear away the fibers.

So, take a little advice from the household sages and take preventive action to avoid disasters around your home.

An Old Look For New Furniture

If you're like many home-makers, you'd like the look of fine old colonial furniture for your home, yet you're not prepared to pay the prices usually asked for authentic antiques. Fortunately, a good secretary can help you, especially if it's a reproduction of the old fashioned kind. This one features the charm of graceful Queen Anne styling. Other pieces in the collection possess the strong lines and unique "spiral rope" motifs of the handsome Jacobean period that early American craftsmen loved to make. These elegant English motifs, with their sea-change touch of colonial cleverness have been recreated by the talented designers at Thomasville in a collection called FOUNTAINHEAD in native American pine and finished in a sunbleached light pine or a warm fruit-wood, toned honey pine.

Our "feature home" this week is situated on 5.27 acres in the Woodland Park Drive area. Well built spacious home that has a 20x11 foot master bedroom and large second bedroom on main floor. Patio doors off dining room to large sundeck, marble fireplace in living room, double vanity sinks and separate shower area in main bathroom. Downstairs features sunken conversation area in front of rock fireplace and patio doors leading to area under sundeck. Laundry and extra bathroom not quite completed. This home has been reduced in price, for quick sale. To view please contact Wightman & Smith Realty Ltd., at 4611 Lakelse Avenue, Terrace, B.C. 635-6361.

INTS FOR OMEOWNERS

Save Your Back

Weeding out weeds is a perennial problem. Mowing down weeds and grass in hard-to-reach lawn areas can be a pain in the neck, and in several other places as well.

Naturally, the best way to solve your weed problem is to prevent it before it crops up. For new lawns, you can help prevent weeds from sprouting by raking, selecting appro-

- (1) handle fuel cap; (2) movable grip; (3) lightweight and large capacity combination handle and gas tank; (4) two-cycle engine; (5) exclusive string advance system; and (6) 20-inch cutting path.

propriate seed, sowing grass early in the fall so it's dense and mature before the weed-sprouting season, and adding fertilizer to speed grass growth. Following these practices can help prevent weeds from having space to root and grow.

However, this system is far from perfect. Some weeds will certainly rear their ugly heads, but when they do, you can eliminate the back-breaking aspects of the chore of getting at weeds and grass in inaccessible areas by using a power trimmer.

If you can't nip weeds in the bud and find yourself wrenching your back trying to trim the grass in those nasty little spots, a trimmer might prove a device as welcome as spring rain to a parched lawn.

THIS STRING TRIMMER has handy features like:

Modern Kitchens Have Old Fashioned Charm

The extensive use of wood in kitchens is typical of and is a traditional decor. It sets a natural mood and a harmonious background for informal family living.

This contemporary version of an old fashioned "homey style" kitchen is warm and inviting, but also efficient and easy to care for.

Pots and pans are suspended overhead like a modern mobile sculpture, adding their own character and immediate identification of the space.

The walls and ceiling of natural Western Red Cedar are both practical and beautiful. Cedar's mellow colour is easy to live with and the wood requires very little upkeep. Pictures, posters and bulletin boards can be arranged, and re-arranged without worrying about marking the walls.

The storage cupboards and work island in this kitchen are constructed from fir plywood and painted chrome yellow. The smooth surface and vivid hue provide a striking contrast with the colours and textures of the other wood surfaces and with the white kitchen appliances.

Concealed push latches on the cupboard doors make them easy to open and to clean because there are no knobs or handles to wash your way around. Medium Density Overlay Douglas fir plywood was used to give a smooth base for the paint finish. This type of COPI EXTERIOR plywood has a resin impregnated fibre overlay that is specially formulated and highly recommended as a base for paint.

The world's largest non-profit scientific and educational institution is the National Geographic Society, founded in 1888.

FOR FRIDAY, JULY 28, 1978

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

Opportunities in a new field will interest you considerably. Study well - if only to grasp as an avocation.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21)

Stellar influences not entirely favorable. You may encounter tension in some areas. Keep your hand look at the bright side of things.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)

You may get a lot of offbeat ideas now. Put them right out of your head. In all situations, it will be important to stress sound judgment, level-headedness, self-control.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)

Care needed in matters of communication. Misinterpretation of a letter or other message could lead to misunderstandings or errors.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)

Your innate aggressiveness will prove an advantage in conducting day's activities. Don't go overboard and alienate friends or associates, however.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

You may find yourself in the midst of controversy. Don't let it bother you. Rather, get together with opponents and, using your innate foresight, you can solve all matters nicely.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

If you feel you are going stale in the idea department, browse about in new areas for information. Hold discussions with those with similar interests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23)

Pause to appraise potentials. Decide cautiously, but not fearfully, whether you should stand toe-to-toe with the competition or circumvent it by a clever maneuver.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 21)

In dealings with others, be sure to note their reactions. The right word at the right time could be a big factor in attaining your ends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Teamwork will be important during this period, so make it a point to associate and work with those whose interests and aims are similar to your own.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

By going along with your associates, you can further your own aims as well. As with before you speak or act. Above all, avoid tendencies toward the unorthodox; to extremes in general.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

A day of mixed influences. You can hold your own through thoughtful answers. A state of readiness management, with a dash of the imagination. Do not become annoyed if some change in your program is necessary.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine intellect, unusual versatility and ambitions which, unless you are careful, can drive you almost to ruthlessness at times. You love pomp, ceremony and power, and you are never happy unless in the limelight. You have a great love of art in all its forms; may successfully take up one or the other either as a vocation or an avocation. But, if you incline toward business as a career, will ultimately reach the top echelons of management and organization, since your acumen in this field is beyond par. Your flair for the dramatic makes you an outstanding candidate for the stage, literature, politics and statesmanship. Birthdate of: Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, widow of U.S. President John F. Kennedy.
